To Our Island Neighbors

“The care of the Earth is our most ancient and most worthy, and after all our most pleasing responsibility. To cherish what remains of it and to foster its renewal is our only hope.”

Letter from the Director:

To our community,
What does it mean to be a steward of the future? And what will the future hold for this beloved island we call home? The changes are undeniable — imagine a Judd Creek, where salmon were once so thick, you could catch them by hand! With thousands of volunteers, partners, and donors — your Land Trust has been working parcel-by-parcel, to permanently protect what is at stake. In this season, we are listening, asking questions, collaborating and planning. We are in deep reflection on the knowing that humanity and nature are not separate, and are honing where our role lies within that connection. We are proud to be doing so with YOU, and also with our youth — the true stewards of the future.

Thank you for being such good and constant companions on this path.

Logging began in Judd Creek

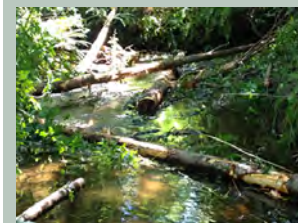

Salmon populations show drastic declines

Captain Vancouver surveyed the area

Salmon in Judd Creek were so thick, you could catch them by hand.

The Land Trust partners with King County to protect the headwaters of Judd Creek. Island Center Forest is born.

Land Trust makes its first purchase along Judd Creek in Paradise Valley and begins to place logs in the creek to improve salmon habitat.

Land Trust purchases the mouth of Judd Creek, Vashon's largest estuary. This area is critical for juvenile Chinook, the primary food source of the endangered Orcas.

The Land Trust adds to the popular Judd Creek Loop Trail with an extension north along Paradise Ridge, and west towards Kneeshaw.

The Land Trust continues to protect the headwaters, through a 7 acre acquisition near Island Center Forest.

The Land Trust is planning Judd trail extensions to Island Center Forest and south to the Skate Park (BARC) at the mouth of Judd Creek.

Climate Resilience for Vashon-Maury Island

Listening to the Earth, and preparing for an uncertain future.

Hill Donation

Our admiration and deep gratitude go out to the Hill Family for their donation to the Land Trust of a spectacular stretch of marine shoreline near Dockton Park. The Land Trust is uniquely suited to receive your gift of real estate, whether for preservation or proceeds, whether now or in your will.

LaSalle Purchase

King County's 15-acre purchase at Maury Marine Park is the latest addition to Vashon's growing "Community Forests," and will connect Dockton Forest to Maury Marine Park. This effort was initiated over a decade ago by the Land Trust and the landowner, and is a testament to how this community works together towards long-term benefits.

Marine shorelines represent one of the most significant and at-risk habitats across Puget Sound, and Vashon holds more than 90% of all the natural shorelines across King County. With this resource comes great responsibility.

Forests are one of the magical ways that the earth protects itself. Trees sink carbon, prevent landslides, infiltrate fresh water into aquifers, and cool our planet.

Matsuda Farm

“Why should conservationists have a positive interest in... farming? There are lots of reasons, but the plainest is: conservationists eat.”

- Wendell Berry

Completion of a 3-year Pilot

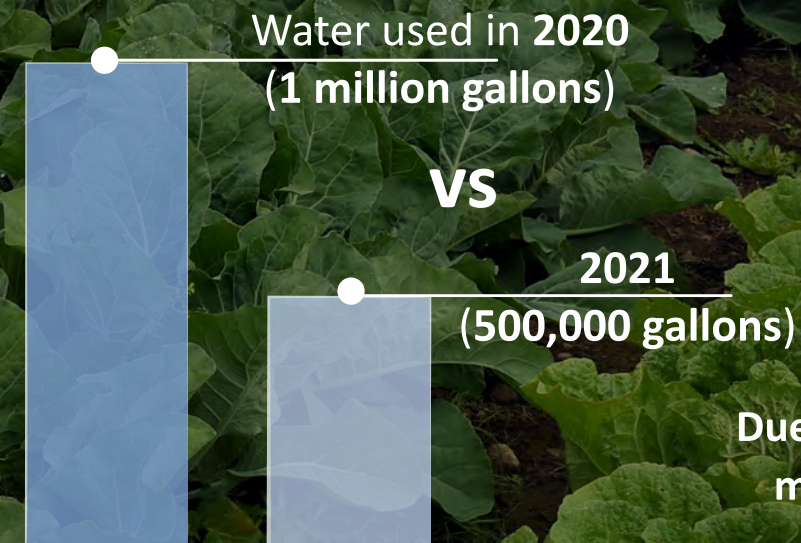

After the acquisition of Matsuda Farm, we embarked on a three-year pilot program, which was completed in 2021. We tested business models, community outreach, and regenerative farming practices. One of the most exciting results was the response from our diverse communities here on Vashon.

Ryan Jones is Matsuda's new Farm Manager. Ryan came to us through our partnership with the WA Dept of Veteran Affairs. The Veteran Farm Program is a key partner and ally, as we explore the next generation of sustainable farmers.

Regenerative Agriculture

Due to no-till and other soil management strategies

Regenerative agriculture is farming in harmony with nature. This concept is not new, and was used by indigenous communities centuries ago - people who knew that working landscapes provide not just products, but ecosystem and community benefits. Today, regenerative agriculture is viewed as one of the most important strategies to address climate change.

Vashon Wilderness Program holds a family planting day at the new Judd Creek trail.

Our Impact ~ Together

Partnerships

Partnerships are at the heart of our work — from the extraordinary environmental education groups on the island, to the Puyallup Tribe, to the visionary investments by King County and beyond. We are especially inspired by the next generation of stewards of the future.

Infographic

Conservation successes since 1990
-- year Land Trust was founded

Donor Leverage:
Raised $100,604,504 to protect 2,615 acres.

Aquatic Habitat:
Protected 7.74 miles of marine shoreline, 7.08 miles of creeks, and most of Vashon's largest ponds.

Public Access:
Protected and constructed 36 miles of trails.

Volunteerism:
Over 15,000 hours.

Strategic Planning

In 2021, we embarked upon a strategic planning process. We evaluated what we have done well, where we can improve, and how we can prepare for the complex future that faces Vashon-Maury Island.
